SAM'S PLACE SAVED

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertssexnews.co.uk

CONTROVERSIAL plans to cut services at a local youth centre supporting youngsters with disabilities have been shelved following a public outcry.

Sam's Place, based at the Foldcroft Family Centre in Hobtoe Road, was earmarked for a £15,000 cut in funding as Harlow Council looked to scrap its popular weekly activity sessions to reduce costs.

But furious parents have now thrashed out a compromise deal with the cash-strapped authority that will see them help run the Thursday night youth club themselves while paying a small fee to cover staffing costs and activities.

The negotiations took place on Thursday following a three-week campaign to save the club from closure.

Adrian Broad, whose 14-year-old son Aaran attends the group, said: "I went into that meeting expecting a fight and instead they actually offered us some options.

WE'VE DONE IT: Parents and children celebrate the news that the Thursday night youth club at Sam's Place has been saved

"The fact is Sam's Place is staying open for our children so we couldn't have asked for a better result. It just shows what can be achieved when everyone works together."

However, mum Sue Evans, who was the first to contact the Star about the proposed cuts, warned there was still a lot of work to be done to secure the centre's long-term future.

"I am, of course, thrilled that we have got to this stage and I am really proud of the work put in to keep Sam's Place going, but we can't afford to be complacent," she said. "The club will be dependent on enough people turning up to help fund the wages and all parents will really have to work together to keep things going."

Joel Charles, chairman of Harlow Council's citizenship and community policy working group, represented the authority at Thursday's meeting.

He told the Star the council was pleased to have been able to reach what he described as a "workable" compromise with parents.

"It looks like we have found a way forward for the Thursday night session at Sam's Place," he said.

"We had a tough but honest discussion with parents last week about the budget decision we took. We registered their deep concern and I hope they took away the fact that the council is having to reluctantly cut back on some things we all value to put money behind basic services.

"The parents have gone away to work through the detail of how they can help us run the Thursday night sessions and I look forward to turning this into a workable plan very soon."

More than 200 residents signed up to an online Facebook group protesting against the planned cuts.

Hundreds more signed petitions circulating around the area or submitted letters to the Star highlighting the devastating impact a reduction in services would have on their children.

Absent councillor is given the sack

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

ONE of Harlow's four Tory county councillors has been booted off the authority after failing to turn up to meetings for six months.

Lee Dangerfield was stripped of his role as an Essex county councillor representing the Harlow West division earlier this month, less than two years into a three-year term of office.

Mr Dangerfield, of Park Lane, Harlow, has since resigned from the Conservative Party.

But despite receiving almost £6,000 in basic responsibility allowance over the period of his absence, he told the Star he would not be paying a penny back as he had fulfilled his duties by "working non-stop" on residents' casework.

"I didn't get into politics to sit in meetings where no-one listens to your opinions and where you're just being used as voting fodder," he said.

"I've always been much more hands-on, getting down to the nitty gritty and helping residents directly by doing vital casework on their behalf. And that is exactly what I've been doing for the past six months.

"Just because I'm not sitting in a meeting sticking my hand up to vote doesn't mean I'm not doing important work. Why should I pay back my allowance when I've been working non-stop on behalf of Harlow residents?"

When asked why he had decided to quit the Tories, Mr Dangerfield said he had become increasingly disillusioned with the party's politics.

"I don't agree with what the Government and Essex County Council are doing at the moment. The budget cuts run too deep and have hit the vulnerable and needy the hardest," he said.

"It's incredibly frustrating when your views are ignored by people willing to toe the party line. I got into politics to make a difference to people's lives and I wasn't getting the opportunity to do that at county council level."

Mr Dangerfield, who has also served on Harlow Council, hit the headlines last year after furious residents accused him of abusing his position as the chairman of the housing policy working group to secure a new council house for his family.

Although he was cleared of any wrongdoing following an internal investigation, he and wife Sarah – also a district councillor at the time – resigned from their council posts in November 2010, claiming they had been "stabbed in the back" by members of their own party who were unhappy with the public outcry that followed their house move.

He said similar clashes with county councillors had led to the breakdown of working relationships at County Hall.

"I never thought I would have to go through more of the same at county level but I was wrong. It became impossible to work with certain people. I would have quit anyway if my six months hadn't been up. I wish the best of luck to whoever replaces me; they're going to need it."

A by-election for the vacant seat will take place on May 5, the same day as district council elections.

LEE DANGERFIELD

Lib Dem group leader to stand down

THE leader of Harlow Council's Liberal Democrat group has called time on a career in local politics spanning more than 20 years. Bush Fair ward councillor Chris Millington will not seek re-election in the local ballot on May 5 after taking the "incredibly tough decision" to retire.

Mr Millington, of Pennymead, has served on the council for 11 years – six of those as group leader and three as joint leader of the council – having already spent 12 years on Waltham Forest Borough Council.

Speaking to the Star this week, the 53-year-old London librarian and keen amateur dramatist said his reasons for retiring were purely personal. He refused to rule out a possible return to politics in the future.

"It was an incredibly tough decision to make because it's been such a great honour serving the people of Harlow these past 11 years," he said.

"However, I've now reached a point where I feel I need to spend more time concentrating on my job and my acting, although I couldn't ever rule out a return to local politics.

"I intend to remain an active member of the local party and will be on the campaign trail as usual next month, supporting Lib Dem candidates in the run-up to May's local elections."

Ron and his diamond 'duchess'

IT was love at first sight for a former Harlow telecoms worker and his "duchess" who have just celebrated 60 years of wedded bliss.

Ron Hornsey (83) and wife Joan (80), of Long Ley, marked their diamond anniversary on Saturday with a party for family and friends at the Heart & Clubs pub in Maddox Road.

The couple first met at a Labour Party meeting in 1949 and tied the knot two years later in Edmonton. In 1953 they moved from a cramped single room into a new flat in Harlow, where Ron found work at telecoms firm STL and Joan got a job as a typist for the Harlow Development Corporation.

Two years later they moved to their current home where they enjoy regular visits from their two children, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Ron said the secret of their lasting happiness was to always be open and honest with one another.

"If we have an argument we either laugh it off or don't talk to each other for a day," he said. "By then we've forgotten what we argued about in the first place!"

"My Joan is a lovely lady – she's my old duchess and I love her just as much today as I always have."

MP: Budget will benefit town

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon has hailed yesterday's Budget as one to benefit "families, lower earners, jobs and motorists".

Chancellor George Osborne's spending plans will see a 1p reduction in fuel duty, a £630 increase in the personal income tax threshold, a two per cent cut in corporation tax and a postponement of planned hikes to air passenger duty.

Speaking straight after Mr Osborne finished his Budget speech in the House of Commons, Mr Halfon said he believed the spending plans were good news for hard-up Harlow residents.

"Despite the economic problems, the Budget has some good news for local residents," he said. "Most Harlow workers will save £200 a year as a result of the income tax threshold being raised, while the town's 35,000 motorists will benefit from fuel duty being reduced by 1p.

"Since Gordon Brown's recession our town has suffered from deep unemployment and rising costs. To combat this we are investing £300m to create 100,000 work experience places for young people, while our firms will benefit from an extra 2p reduction in business taxes, creating thousands of new jobs."

He added: "It has been an extremely tough year but our economy is at last moving in the right direction."

Council trims frequency of grass cutting to save cash

GRASS-cutting and tree maintenance programmes are set to be scaled back from the end of this month in a bid to save Harlow Council more than £240,000 a year.

Road verges and open spaces outside of housing areas will now be cut every 34 working days instead of 17, while verges will be cleared of litter just three times every fortnight.

However, housing areas, playgrounds and small grass areas will continue to be tended every 17 working days and Harlow Town Park and sponsored roundabouts every 12 working days.

Further savings will be made by cutting back on non-essential tree maintenance, although the council has promised timescales for urgent services will remain unaffected and that priority will be given to emergency call-outs.

The authority also hopes to save cash by inviting more residents to help to maintain the town's 42 wildlife sites, five Local Nature Reserve sites and Sites of Special Scientific Interest including Parndon Wood.

Tony Hall, chairman of the council's environment policy working group, said: "These changes are part of the tough budget choices we had to make."

"We consulted with residents on the Environment Service Improvement Team and these changes were selected as having the lowest impact on the features that the team valued while still making the necessary savings."

Judge throws out taxi driver's plea over licence ban

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A TAXI driver whose licence was revoked after he verbally abused council officers and unnerved passengers with his aggressive driving has failed in a bid to get the decision overturned.

Alfred Mallia (60), of Felmongers, Harlow, lodged an appeal after Harlow Council took away his hackney carriage licence in February last year.

But after a hearing at Harlow Magistrates Court on Thursday, a district judge ruled in favour of the council and ordered Mr Mallia to pay £15,000 towards the authority's legal costs.

The court was told Mr Mallia's licence was revoked by the council's licensing sub committee to protect public safety following two serious complaints.

The first was from a passenger who got into his taxi at Harlow Town station and became concerned for his safety after being driven at speed over bumps and sworn at.

In an attempt to spark up conversation the passenger remarked that Christmas would be good for the taxi trade, to which Mallia replied: "Is it bs! No-one goes shopping by cab anymore".

In a witness statement, the passenger continued: "He then proceeded to drive down Tumbler Road without slowing down over the speed humps, causing considerable jolting in the back."

Fly me to the moon

THIS stunning picture of the moon as it made its closest orbit to earth in almost two decades was taken by Star reader Rob Bright.

Keen amateur photographer Rob (38), of Foster Street, Harlow, snapped the picture while standing in his front garden at about 7.15pm on Friday.

"I wanted to get a few shots of the moon anyway as I'd heard it was going to be the closest it's been to the Earth for some time and then I saw the lights of the jumbo overhead."

"As it crossed over I reeled off about 50 shots. It was pure chance really that it came out so well!"

Mr Bright posted the picture to his online Flickr account and was amazed by the response it received. "So far it's had over 400 hits and I've had lots of positive comments. I'm pretty chuffed with the response!"

Stargazers across the planet watched the skies in awe for a sight of the "supermoon" which was passing nearer than normal to Earth while in its full phase. The phenomenon happens several times a year but it is rarely noticeable.

Mr Mallia also started singing and asked the passenger to guess the tunes and performer, adding that they could guess his age from the songs he was singing.

The second complaint was made after a council parking officer was verbally abused and sworn at when he asked Mallia to move his vehicle along in the town centre taxi rank.

The court heard there had been two further incidents when Mallia failed to control his aggression following the council's decision to revoke his licence.

Dismissing the appeal, the judge said: "Mr Mallia has his own intransigent views and they do not change. It is always other people's problems, not his. Mr Mallia acts in a highly aggressive way and won't co-operate in any way, shape or form with the council."

Speaking after the hearing Nick

Churchill, chairman of Harlow Council's licensing committee, said: "Mr Mallia had undergone an anger management course but that quite patently did no good."

"Harlow Council's licensing committee is there to ensure that people getting into a taxi in Harlow town centre can expect a courteous and safe driver. The court's decision sends a strong signal in support of that."

Scientist's work to be honoured with plaque

A PLAQUE commemorating the achievements of a Harlow-based scientist credited with the invention of fibre optics is to be unveiled in the town centre tomorrow (Friday).

Professor Charles Kao, who was awarded the Nobel Prize for Physics in 2009 in recognition of his work, made his revolutionary breakthrough while working for Standard Telecommunications - now Nortel Networks - in London Road.

The plaque will be unveiled in the Water Gardens during a ceremony chaired by Harlow Civic Society chairman Stan Newens.

Mr Newens said: "Harlow Civic Society has erected a number of plaques to commemorate people who have made a significant contribution to Harlow of which all citizens can be proud."

"Charles Kao's epoch-making invention is something upon which telecommunications around the world now depend and it is only right that his incredible achievements are commemorated in the town where he made his breakthrough."

Dozen arrests

POLICE officers on patrol in Harlow town centre made 12 arrests during a four-day crackdown on crime.

Four people were arrested on suspicion of public order offences, five on suspicion of affray, two for assault and one for drink-driving.

The operation took place from Thursday to Sunday.

Mandy wins a car with designer chic

LUCKY shopper Mandy Moore popped into the Matalan store in Harlow to buy some presents and ended up winning a car designed by Laurence Llewelyn-Bowen.

Mandy, from Old Harlow, entered a national competition when she visited the store in Water Gardens last November. When she returned last week she was handed the keys of the Fiat 500 by the flamboyant interior designer.

"It's lovely, I am absolutely chuffed to bits," she said. "I am about to be made redundant so it seems like just as one door is closing another one has opened. My three-year-old is going to absolutely love it!"

Laurence, who has been designing pattern and print collections for Matalan for a number of years, chose Mandy as the overall winner out of a shortlist of five after learning how the car would change her life.

He said: "I loved that she was really understated with her answer about never having won anything before. She also seemed to have the right personality to fit my glitzy design which is important seeing that she's going to have to drive around in a car with my stamp on it from now on!"

The car, which is worth more than £15,000, was kitted out by Laurence

Father admits child cruelty but denies sexual assault

A FATHER accused of sexually assaulting his adopted daughter repeatedly disciplined her by forcing her to stand upside down in a laundry basket and remain there, a court heard.

The man, who comes from Harlow but who cannot be named to protect the identity of the victims, also slapped her and smacked her hard, Chelmsford Crown Court was told.

After hearing his pleas of guilty to two offences of child cruelty, jurors were told he had continually sexually abused the girl and gone on to repeat the offences with his own daughter. Andrew McGhee, prosecuting, said the defendant committed the offences after he had been drinking or when drunk. "He committed some offences every day or every other day and when his adopted daughter asked him to stop he told her 'I'm your daddy now. You're dad's not here to help you any more'."

"He would often discipline them in a way that amounts to bullying and even his wife who witnessed the child cruelty offences was cowed by him." Under cross examination, the adopted daughter said: "I wasn't allowed to watch TV in my bedroom; everything was taken out. I remember just having a crayon."

"I was never allowed to go out, only in the back garden or once around the front garden area. I could never go to the park with friends. He had to be rung up for me to get permission to go out with my friends."

She added: "One minute he would be chatting, being nice. Then he would switch because I couldn't do something with paper. It turned into a punishment."

The defendant denies five offences of indecent assault between October 1, 2002 and July 31, 2010 against his adopted daughter and five offences of gross indecency with same girl. He also denies four offences of sexual assault over a two-year period on his natural daughter. The hearing continues.

Three more schools to seek Academy status

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE governing bodies of three more secondary schools in Harlow have announced they are consulting on plans to seek Academy status.

At separate meetings held last week, governors from Burnt Mill, Mark Hall and Stewards agreed to open discussions on proposals for the schools to break away from local education authority control and run independently.

The news comes just weeks after the Star reported on Passmores School's bid to become an Academy. Its governing body said the decision had been taken in order to make the school more financially sustainable.

Burnt Mill, Mark Hall and Stewards – which along with Passmores are members of the recently formed Harlow Education Trust – said they were working together in the interests of young people and families in Harlow.

A spokesman for all three schools said: "The exploration of Academy status is designed to ensure, as far as possible, that we can retain and build on good educational provision."

"We intend to carry on much of the good work we already do and this includes continuing to work closely with primary schools."

School hits back in Academy row

FLASHBACK: Star, February 3

However, political pressure group Harlow Against the Cuts has criticised the move, describing it as a "step back" for education provision in the district.

"Children from less well-off backgrounds will end up being the main victims here," said HATC secretary David Forman.

"Academies are not the silver bullet that the Government would have people believe. With no scrutiny from the council or local community, the schools will have the power to do what they want, including being selective with their intake, lowering staff salaries and making important decisions without consultation."

He added: "Initially there will be a honeymoon period but eventually without that link with the local community standards will slip and the schools will really go downhill, just like what has happened with many others all over the country."

'Old boy' Glenn returns for Burnt Mill's 50th anniversary

FOOTBALL legend Glenn Hoddle kicked off his former school's 50th anniversary celebrations during a visit to the town where he grew up.

The former England manager spent the afternoon reminiscing about old times and seeing what had changed at Burnt Mill School since he left almost 40 years ago in 1973.

The Spurs legend also took time out to chat with current pupils and staff before discussing plans for the school's golden jubilee next year with headteacher Helena Mills.

A school spokeswoman told the Star: "We are just going through the final planning stages for our golden jubilee celebrations at the moment but thought it would be nice to invite one of our most successful ex-pupils back for a visit to get the ball rolling, so to speak!"

"The afternoon went really well and Glenn seemed to have a really good time going around his old school. He particularly enjoyed seeing our playing fields and said he remembered playing football here all those years ago."

Harlow Council
Working together for Harlow

Road crossing safety work delayed until the summer

WORK to improve the safety at a road crossing linking Harlow College with the town centre has been pushed back to the summer following months of delays.

Highways authority Essex County Council originally planned to start work on the Velizy Avenue crossing last October. But this week it confirmed it will not begin until this year's school summer break.

County Hall blamed the hold-up on the recent restructuring of the council's highways and transportation department. As a result, a new team was now "revisiting the project" and reviewing construction methods and materials.

The continual delays have angered college students, residents and Harlow MP Rob Halfon, who told the Star: "I am incredibly disappointed that there has been delay after delay in this, particularly after being given numerous assurances verbally and in writing that this would be done earlier."

"There should not have been these delays. I have repeatedly pressed the authorities concerned to get things moving."

"I hope very much the highways department keeps to its pledged current timeline, for the sake of road safety for college students and other users of Velizy Avenue. We can't wait any longer."

Anger at death crash sentence

vicky.lane@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE eldest son of a cyclist who was killed after being struck by a lorry as he cycled to work has spoken of his disgust after the driver was jailed for just 24 weeks.

Father-of-seven John Brace-Day (54), of High Wych Road, High Wych, was cycling along the A414 between Harlow and Stanstead Abbots 10 days before Christmas 2009 when he was hit by the lorry.

Last week the driver, Paul Winfield, was sent to prison after pleading guilty at Luton Crown Court to a charge of causing death by careless driving. He was also banned from driving for a year.

The court was told that Winfield (36), from Luton, has been unable to offer an explanation as to how he failed to see the cyclist, who at the time was cycling on a floodlit stretch of the road wearing a high visibility jacket and with his bike lights switched on.

This week Mr Brace-Day's eldest son Alan (38), of Foldcroft, Harlow, said he could not believe that someone responsible for another person's death and unable to explain what had happened could get off so lightly.

"On the day of his sentence I first heard that he had got 'six' and thought that they meant six years in prison," he told the Star. "When I then found out that it was only six months - which will actually mean he only serves 12 weeks - I just thought that was so wrong."

"My whole family has been dragged through this for almost a year and a half and still no reason or answers have ever been given to us as to why this happened, only that he couldn't see my Dad."

"It has ripped us apart. We were quite a close family before but now we barely talk. Everyone is just so overcome with grief."

Alan said Winfield has never apologised directly to his family, despite passing them on several occasions in court.

"That is what I think is so unfair," he said. "He has never approached any of us to say sorry and now he's got away with a small sentence by keeping quiet."

"We really deserved some answers at the very least."

As reported in last week's Star, judge Andrew Bright was moved to tears by the impact statements submitted to the court by Mr Brace-Day's children.

Zara, his nine-year-old daughter, said: "I miss my daddy reading me bedtime stories. He used to take me on bike rides but I am not allowed a bike any more."

"I went up two levels in English but I cannot tell my dad. I miss going out with my dad and his jokes and I am sad he will not see me grow up."

"I do not want to forget him. I will miss him on my birthday and I don't like Christmas now."

Passing sentence, the judge said: "The tragedy this case represents is beyond words. It is difficult to read the family statements without tears forming."

FROM leg waxing to pyjama parties, the people of Harlow donned red noses and did their bit for this year's record breaking Comic Relief fundraiser.

Among those doing something funny for money were youngsters from Latton Green Pre-School, who enjoyed a Red Nose Day picnic with special red-coloured food. Along with pupils from the primary school, who held a special talent show on the day, the school raised a total of £220.

Law firm Attwaters also concentrated on the red theme of Red Nose Day, dressing in the traditional Comic Relief colour and tucking into bacon rolls with red sauce and red cupcakes at work to raise £170.

A pyjama party and cake sale at Bags Etc in the Harvey Centre raised more than £55 while some members of staff at Harlow telecoms firm Servasure spent the day relaxing in their nightwear to raise £150 towards the cause.

Children and staff at Broadfields Primary School enjoyed the treat of being able to roll out of bed and into school, collecting over £330 with their crazy hair and pyjama day fundraiser.

Coffee shop owner Paul Freakley, who runs Traders Coffee and Snack Bar in the Harvey Centre, finally got a haircut when highest sponsor Stuart Turner shaved off his wacky locks, helping Paul reach an overall fundraising total of £380.

Talented students from Potter Street School showed off their abilities in a Comic Relief talent contest raising £170, whilst members of Crosskeys Netball Group had lots of fun raising £126.40 at their special Red Nose Day netball practice.

Through scratch cards, face painting, sponsored karaoke and collections buckets, staff at the town's Sainsbury's store raised £1,500 on the day and a whopping £4,500 over the weeks leading up to the big day.

Eddy Guyatt, manager of the Toby Carvery in Edinburgh Way, donned a pinney and completed a three-hour sponsored waitress shift last Sunday, raising £210.

And fearless Stewards School pupil Nqoba Mvitsho agreed to submit himself to a sponsored leg wax during the school's non-uniform day, helping to raise £200 of the school's £950 total.

Public services essential to the quality of our lives

SIR, Although I am a lifelong member of the Labour Party, I have never taken the attitude "my party right or wrong".

Labour governments and councils can and do make mistakes. I will even concede that in some matters there is a case for conservatism with a small 'c'. But on the major issue of the principles underlying social and economic policy, I totally reject the current Conservative (with a capital 'C') attack on public services.

The Labour Party was founded to represent the ordinary people who depend on collective progress for their advancement rather than on individual success in the capitalist rat-race or on hereditary privilege, and who previously had no voice in the corridors of power. With all its faults, this remains at the heart of Labour.

It was the supposed apostle of the free market, Adam Smith, who said: "Wherever there is great property, there is great inequality. For one very rich man there must be at least 500 poor and the affluence of the few supposes the indigence of the many." The mistake of the last Labour Government was not that it was profligate in spending on public services, but that it bought into the neo-liberal economic orthodoxy that allowed the deregulated banks to precipitate a world financial crisis.

Until the crisis struck the Tories were promising to maintain Labour's level of spending while going still further down the deregulatory road.

Public services are an essential part of everyone's quality of life and everyone will feel the effect of their loss if the Tory cuts are not stopped.

It is a political decision, not an economic one. Once that is understood, there can be a rational discussion of the alternatives rather than the usual slanging match.

Turning off street lights is a hazard to road users

SIR, I am writing to highlight the potential dangers that the lack of street lighting between the end of Southern Way and Broadley Road presents.

Why stop an efficient method of collecting our refuse bins?

SIR, Up until last Tuesday mine and many of my neighbours' recycling and refuse collections have been made from the rear of our properties.

The previous week an elderly neighbour contacted the council to report her green waste wheeled bin, which she pays extra for, had not been collected. She explained where the bin was and subsequently it was collected from the rear of her property.

The following day she received a visit from a council employee who informed her, in an aggressive and confrontational manner, that bins should not be left at the rear of the property and would no longer be collected unless she moved them to the front boundary. No other neighbours were informed of this decision but none of our bins were subsequently emptied.

When my bin was left I emailed Contact Harlow to query the reason. I received a curt reply telling me the reason why my recycling was not collected was because it was not on the boundary. The reply was unattributed.

On Friday I received a letter from the council's waste and recycling project officer reiterating the information in the email and suggesting I was storing my bins in an alleyway. This is untrue; my bins are stored in my garden and are only moved to the alleyway for collection. He also said placing the bins in the alleyway caused an obstruction and potential trip hazard.

I don't know how frequent a visitor this officer is to the alleyway or the state of his physical condition, but I use it daily both walking and cycling and have never once been obstructed or tripped by any bin. The uneven pavements are far more of a hazard.

Since we started using wheeled bins in 2009, the people responsible for collection have appeared more than happy to collect them from the rear of our property. I always assumed that this was because it is quicker and therefore a much more efficient place to collect from. Their vehicles cannot access the front boundary of some properties (no road) whereas they can park directly adjacent to the alleyway.

These wheeled bins are not the most attractive feature to have stuck at the front of your property, which is why many Harlow residents try to keep them out of sight. They can also be quite heavy when full, making it difficult for elderly and infirm residents to move them any distance, let alone the distance the council is now forcing them to move them.

These changes will put us in the unfortunate position where an efficient, workable method of collection which has been running for 18 months and was beneficial to both the residents and the people collecting has been stopped. Surely common sense says this cannot be right. Why shouldn't this alleyway be an agreed point of collection?

I am sure the council wishes to encourage residents to 'buy into' ever more environmentally better ways of disposing of our waste but by operating a dictatorship they will only create resentment.

POST: Star Letters, 6 West Gate, Harlow, Essex CM20 1JW

EMAIL: star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Whilst I'm all for saving energy and money, since the lighting has been turned off in the evening visibility is dramatically reduced.

So far I have scuffed the roundabout as I couldn't see the edge, scuffed the kerb for the same reason and had a near miss with a couple of people crossing the road because the contrast changes so quickly that your eyesight has very little time to adjust.

There are no cat's eyes in the road to assist drivers, especially where there is a curvature in the road at that point, and the island bollards are not overly visible due to the lack of fluorescent strips or suchlike on them.

I realise that the evenings will get lighter soon, but in the meantime I feel it is a potential hazard.

I have lived in the area for 15 years so I know the road extremely well, yet I still have problems judging the kerbs in the evenings once the lighting is turned off. For those who don't know the area well, it could potentially be an accident waiting to happen.

Also, I notice that the underpass is not lit either and considering four black posts have just been installed across the entrances this is particularly dangerous for cyclists who may not be aware of the changes.

There must be a way of improving visibility for road users to avoid accidents. We can all manage without lighting as long as a few minor things were put in place to compensate for the lack of light.

K, Batten
Sycamore Field, Harlow

as has been done nearer the M11 – to allow for a dual carriageway all the way from the M11 to beyond the Church Langley roundabout?

One hundred metres of single road is an accident waiting to happen, as I nearly witnessed yesterday afternoon. There's a stretch of three-lane road (very dangerous as we all know) and another with hatching across it. Whoever is responsible has obviously never passed their driving test; if they have, they ought to be ashamed of themselves to leave an anachronism like that. It's all so pointless, too.

The extra cost, if done at the same time as all the rest, would have been minimal and the disruption hardly noticeable.

Coaches acting as a road block

SIR, Having taken the opportunity last Sunday to do a spot of garden tidying now that the weather is better, I decided to take all my green recycling to the recycling centre at Temple Bank. I was then extremely frustrated to find I had to queue for nearly 20 minutes to enter the site.

This was not because the site was particularly busy but due to the fact that six buses and coaches were parked along the road. These coaches should not be there as this is an access road.

The result of this inconsiderate parking (back-to-back in a long line) of these commercial vehicles meant that there was only enough room for single file cars to pass and consequently created a build up of traffic both entering and leaving the site and along the road either side of the coaches.

As this road is heavily used at the weekend by residents to dispose of their waste (as we are forever being reminded to do), then the road should be a clearway or have yellow lines to prevent it being used as a storage site for coaches at the weekend.

The result is residents wasting a lot of time and fuel when visiting the recycling centre.

I hope that Harlow Council will take the necessary action to prevent Temple Bank being used as a commercial vehicle park!

Thanks to girls who found bags

SIR, While visiting my son in Great Brays I had my bags taken from the boot of my car which, by my own mistake, I had double clicked on the fob as I walked away and pressed the boot release by accident.

I returned to find the boot wide open and immediately accepted the inevitable loss.

My son said we could look around the corner in case my bags had been discarded. As I did so two young girls crossed the road, each with one of my bags. I called out and they came over explaining where they had found them.

In these times of bad news isn't it refreshing to know two young Harlow girls are angels in the wings. My thanks to them both.

My only loss was a bottle of perfume which was a Christmas present. Considering the terrible losses in Japan, perhaps the person who took it would like to send a donation out there. That way, every time they use my Chanel the sweet smell of justice will touch more than their skin.

Not amused by a rude awakening

SIR, I know charity begins at home but I felt most uncharitable when a clothing collection bag was shoved noisily through my letterbox at 6.30am.

It was deposited by a charity unknown to me and, unsurprisingly, I plan to ignore it and donate my unwanted clothing etc to a more familiar organisation – one that doesn't wake me with its noisy delivery!

Road widening has fallen short

SIR, For well over a year we have suffered roadworks to create the new 'hamburger' roundabout on the A414/Southern Way junction and the dualling of the road to the M11 junction.

Now it's all over we witnessed a very narrow squeak between a lorry and a car on the only bit of single carriageway road north of the new junction.

Why oh why couldn't the road have been widened – just a little bit – and a small amount of verge removed –

Don't ignore the needs of the deaf

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW woman keen to make local services more "deaf friendly" has started an online website to provide the community with training and information on the needs of the hearing impaired.

Emma Somerville, who runs sign language school Simply Signed, decided to set up the Deaf Information Point Online when it became apparent that many organisations didn't know how to approach the deaf community.

Shawbridge resident Emma, who is deaf herself, said: "Most of the time companies have no idea that they are lacking access for the deaf, yet it is obvious from my research that many organisations and public services in the area just don't know how to offer their services to the hearing impaired.

"My main goal with DIP is to encourage organisations to look at what they are already doing and see how things can be improved upon within their services.

"It is so important not only for the deaf but also for the hearing as it will allow an important bridge to develop for both the providers and users of these services."

As well as the online database, Emma is starting a drop-in clinic on the last Thursday of every month for companies to find out how to make their services more accessible to deaf people.

The workshops will also provide information about local services available for the hearing impaired, hold deaf awareness events and run sign language classes for hearing and deaf people keen to maintain or develop their signing skills.

"Ultimately I am trying to make services more deaf friendly, make the deaf community more aware of what's available to them and finally teach hearing people how to use and maintain sign language," said Emma.

"I have no idea how many more deaf people there are in Harlow but hope that this will reach them and provide more information about local services and eventually a wider choice."

The DIP can be found on the Simply Signed website at www.simplysigned.co.uk. The drop-in clinic starts on March 31 at the David Livingstone Centre in Potter Street from 7-9.30pm. For more information email simplysigned@live.co.uk or visit the website.

Rotary ready for its annual abseil

DAREDEVILS with a head for heights are being urged to buckle up and take part in Harlow Tye Rotary Club's annual fundraising abseil.

The club, which has already raised and distributed more than £550,000 from the popular challenge, is hoping that this year's abseil - the 14th it has organised - will be bigger and better than ever.

It will take place at the Church Langley water tower over the Royal Wedding weekend - Saturday, April 30 and Sunday, May 1.

Club chairman Don Cramphorn said:

"This is a huge event that has proved to be really successful over the years. People all over the country - even those scared of heights - take part and always really enjoy themselves.

"I would urge anyone over 16, whatever their ability or fitness, to get involved for a fun experience and to help raise money for some great causes."

The cost to register is £30. Participants can then raise money for a charity of their own choice or the club's own charitable trust fund.

For more information or to download a registration form with full terms and conditions, visit the website at harlowtye.freeuk.com.

Salon celebrates with 'tea party'

ANYONE partial to a cup of tea and a slice of cake can enjoy a day of pampering and indulgence when a Harlow beauty salon holds a fundraising event this weekend.

To celebrate their 10th anniversary, staff at Salon 112 in The Stow have organised a special tea party to raise money for The Eve Appeal, an organisation funding research into gynaecological cancers.

For a £5 entry fee, guests can take their pick from a selection of cakes whilst taking part in beauty demonstrations and learning about all the latest treatments and techniques.

Salon manager Mandy Linden said: "We all know someone who has been affected by cancer so we thought that doing an event to raise money for The Eve Appeal would be a really great way to celebrate our anniversary.

"All the entry fee will go directly to the charity and everyone who comes will receive a Salon 112 gift voucher as a thank you from us. It should be a really good day and would be lovely to see as many people as possible."

Salon 112's tea party is taking place on Saturday (March 23) from 10am-6pm. For more information call (01279) 306376.

Autism group sowing the seeds of campaign to raise awareness

THE seeds of a new charity campaign were planted by Harlow parents and children this week to raise awareness for World Autism Day.

Local group Parents of Autistic Children Together launched their New Seed Campaign with the help of youngsters from Burnt Mill and Milwards schools when they spent a morning planting the seeds of unusually coloured organic vegetables in a local allotment.

Purple and red runner beans, yellow, white and tiger striped tomatoes and rainbow chard were all planted to highlight the message that even though some things may look different they can still be just as good.

PACT committee member Rowen Saunders, whose son suffers from autism, explained: "The New Seed Campaign is an awareness initiative to show that just like the unusual coloured vegetables, people suffering with autism may look or act differently to other people but that being different is not a bad thing.

"The vegetables are fun and most importantly taste exactly the same as the normal ones.

This is the message that we are hoping to highlight to coincide with World Autism Day in a couple of weeks."

She added: "We will be selling the seeds for a suggested donation of £1 a pack on World Autism Day so that people can grow and enjoy their own colourful vegetables whilst helping to raise awareness about autism."

Anyone wanting to purchase some of the seeds can get them from Sainsbury's in Fifth Avenue on World Autism Day (April 2) or buy them from the PACT website at www.pactharlow.org.uk.

Gallery opens with a Moore exhibition

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A COUPLE of weeks ago we turned back the clock to 1969, the year council planners finally gave the go-ahead to build Harlow's Playhouse theatre.

It had been 13 years since the plans for a dedicated performing arts centre were first mooted but it seems that even after all that time the battle was still not over for everyone.

According to local journalist Paul Hopkins, author of the book The Long and The Short and The Tall (Half a lifetime of the arts in Harlow by the people who have lived it) – published by Harlow Arts Council in 1983 – a divide was beginning to emerge in the local arts community by the time The Playhouse eventually opened in November 1971.

From the beginning the plans for The Playhouse had envisioned the venue as a centre catering for both the visual and performing arts. Yet as the theatre programme was drawn up and the allocated exhibition space remained unused, it became apparent which field of the arts was going to take precedence.

Eventually local artist Angela Godfrey, who had read about the available exhibition space in a newspaper article, arranged to meet the theatre's artistic director, Reg Birks, to get the project moving.

However, it wasn't going to be easy as she explained: "The result of our meeting was to invite all the professional artists and craftsmen we could think of in Harlow and the surrounding region to get together in the Playhouse and to talk about a future gallery."

"The assembled crowd was conducted around the building and up to the second floor where, stooping low under a layer of scaffolding, each tried to envisage an art gallery there."

"One wall consisted of a lift shaft and three large windows, the second of two double doors, a single door and a stairwell, the third included a large red hose and rectangular heating grilles and the fourth had glass double doors at one end and was divided by three prominent vertical heating ducts with large grilles in between.

"This had to be transformed into an art gallery."

A group of nominated artists dedicated themselves to more months of hard work transforming the unusable walls, covering the windows and painting the room.

Finally, in March 1972 and four months after the theatre was opened, a fully functional art gallery was unveiled to the public with an exhibition of work by world-renowned sculptor Henry Moore, whose sculpture Harlow Family Group had become an unofficial emblem of the New Town.

DO YOU REMEMBER: Old Folks Talent Contest

DID your parent or grandparents ever go head-to-head in Harlow Council's Old Folks Talent Contest?

The annual competition encouraged the town's more mature residents to take to the stage and dazzle audiences with their abilities.

Instrument recitals and war-time renderings were some of the more popular acts, though contestants for the 'Old Time Hats' and 'Knobbly Knees' categories were usually rewarded with the most laughs.

This photograph, taken from a 1976 copy of Harlow News, shows Mrs Florence Ginn, then aged 70, in her show-stealing 'It's A Knockout' hat.

The overall winner of the competition would receive the honour of going forward to represent the area in the regional finals of the All England Local Council Talent Competition at Southend.

Do you remember the Old Folks Talent Contest? Did you any of your relatives ever get up on stage and strut their stuff? Send us your memories to Nostalgia, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

Explosive find

A wartime hoard of Molotov Cocktails – self igniting phosphorus bombs – were uncovered by a mechanical digger at North Weald Airfield. More than 180 of the glass bottles containing phosphorus were found by Army bomb experts who destroyed them in a controlled explosion. Neighbouring residents were told to keep their windows closed because of the cloud of toxic smoke from the explosion.

Aids denial

A newspaper report suggesting that anybody visiting The Princess Alexandra Hospital will have to be tested for Aids has been dismissed as misleading. Edward Hackford, district manager for West Essex Health Authority, denied the rumour during a public meeting at the Harlow hospital, stating: "We would like to give a clear and unequivocal statement that this is not the case."

Lice outbreak

Angry mums have signed a petition over an outbreak of lice at Summers Primary School. They claim that 50 children have been infected and are demanding regular head checks by visiting nurses after a new local health authority policy reduced the number of inspections at school. However, headmaster Ian Sutton said that he didn't think there was an epidemic.

Crime rate up

Crime increased by an eighth last year but nearly half of the reported incidents were successfully detected, according to police. Although the number of house burglaries dropped, there were still 5,059 offences recorded throughout the county. Essex police further warned that violent crimes had risen, but praised the increased public involvement in crime prevention which they said was having "an encouraging effect".

Men invited to join the fun at Midnight Walk

PINK may be the dominant colour of the St Clare Hospice Midnight Walk but it is not only women who can join in the fun.

Of the 1,442 people who took part in last year's 10km walk around Harlow, 139 of them were male. And this week the organisers are calling on more men to sign up.

Among last year's walkers was hospice physiotherapist Emily Stowe who was joined by her boyfriend Greg Kisala and a group of friends including another two men – Chris Wagner and Adrian Holyomes.

"Because I work at the hospice the boys know what good work it does so they were really quite keen to support St Clare where they could," said Emily.

"They all really enjoyed the Midnight Walk as the atmosphere was amazing and really got into the spirit of the night by wearing pink tights and tutus!"

"Adrian is walking again this year and his work are sponsoring him to do it dressed as a fairy!"

So come on, guys. Join your wives, girlfriends, sisters, daughters, nieces and aunts to experience a night to remember. You could even enter an all-male team.

"Whether you want to dress up as a woman, put on full fancy dress or just wear the pink Midnight Walk T-shirt which is included in the goody bags given to everyone before the start, we want you to take part," said event fundraiser Tracy Stratford.

The walk will begin at the Water Gardens in Harlow town centre at 10.30pm.

Organisers are hoping to persuade 1,500 people to take part in the 10k walk around Harlow on Saturday, June 18. Over the past three years a staggering £290,000 has been raised by the Midnight Walk and this year, with the Star's support, the hospice want to make it a total of £400,000.

"The Midnight Walk is a hugely popular event with participants coming from Harlow and surrounding areas," said St Clare's communication manager Giles Wright. "It's fantastic to see that we have hit over 100 sign-ups so far."

"The hospice provides specialist services to people in the local community who are living with a life-limiting illness. Every year it costs £2.6m to run the hospice and only 24 per cent of this is funded by the NHS, so we need you to get your glad rags on for a fun and eventful night out."

There is still time to take advantage of the 'early bird' offer. If you and a friend sign up by next Thursday (March 31), joint entry will cost just £20. This includes an 'I painted the town pink' T-shirt and goody bag. Entry fee will return to £15 per person from April 1.

You can register today at www.stclarehospice.org.uk, call (01279) 773750 for a registration form or send off the coupon on this page.

... and don't forget the 10km run

TIME is running out for anyone thinking about signing up for next month's 10km run in aid of St Clare Hospice.

So far almost 400 people have put their names down to compete in the event, which takes place on Sunday, April 3.

Among them are Chris Cooper, who will be joined by her two daughters – Michelle Cooper and Holly Sherwood – as they celebrate Mother's Day with a difference.

Holly has two children of her own – Lucy (4) and Archie (2) – who will be cheering on their nan, mum and auntie.

Michelle said: "I'm really glad that I can do something to help the hospice. I've never taken part in a 10k run before but it'll be great having my sister and mum running with me and my niece and nephew cheering us on from the sidelines."

The run will start from the hospice, in Hastingwood Road, at 10.30am.

Event fundraiser Tracy Stratford said: "So far 370 runners have signed up but there is still time for more people to join in."

"Whether you want to sprint round with our elites or jog round at the back, we would love to see you there supporting the hospice."

"Our runners are hoping to raise £20,000 towards the £2.6m needed every year to run the hospice. This is money that will help St Clare to continue providing care free of charge to patients and their families in the local community.

As an added incentive there are prizes for everyone taking part. All runners will receive a goody bag, medal and T-shirt.

Family and friends are welcome to go along on the day to give their support and there will be a barbecue waiting for the runners when they return.

The cost of registration is £12 (£10 for affiliated runners). You can register in advance online at www.stclarehospice.org.uk or on the day for an additional £3 from 9.30am.

For more information, call the fundraising team on (01279) 773752.

A new companion for the guide dog that lost its sight

GUIDE dog owner Graham Waspe couldn't bear to part with his beloved companion after it lost its sight - so he got a new dog to act as eyes for both of them!

Edward, pictured left, a golden retriever, had been with Mr Waspe (60) for six years before developing problems with his eyes which meant they had to be removed.

But Mr Waspe, who is registered blind, was determined to keep his loyal and faithful friend so he got a new guide dog to look after them both.

Now two-year-old Opal, pictured right, acts as the eyes for both Mr Waspe and Edward, who is now enjoying a well-deserved rest.

"My wife and I cried when we heard Edward was losing his sight but we were determined to keep caring for him," Mr Waspe told reporters.

"Since he lost his sight last October he has just adapted incredibly well. He and Opal are very affectionate and just love to lie down together."

Despite losing his sight, eight-year-old Edward is otherwise healthy and has shown no signs of slowing down.

Now the trio raise awareness of the work of the Guide Dogs for the Blind Association by visiting local schools and community groups.

WIN Pair of tickets to a new heart-warming comedy

Matthew Kelly Gerard Kearns
Sign OF THE TIMES
TIM FIRTH

FROM Tim Firth, writer of Calendar Girls, comes *Sign
Of The Times*, a heartwarming, human comedy about finding happiness in unpredictable times.

Frank Tollit has put up giant letters on the sides of buildings for more than 25 years. From 40ft yellow IKEAs to 5ft-high red COMETs, Frank's done them all.

But in his heart he has always yearned to work with smaller letters . . . novels. Or, to be more precise, spy novels.
Stories of unexpected encounters in dangerous places, disasters, treachery and daring rescues.

However, a lifelong lack of success is driving Frank to the edge. Not even in one of his wildest plots could Frank have dreamed that salvation would turn up in the shape of a clumsy young teenager.

Sign Of The Times stars Olivier
Award winner Matthew Kelly (Of Mice and Men, Waiting for Godot) and, making his West End debut, Gerard Kearns (Looking For Eric, Shameless).

This week we are giving you the chance to win one of five pairs of tickets for the show which is being staged at the Duchess Theatre in London.
All you have to do is answer this simple question in the can enter via the dedicated

This woman was once the

the news...

...in fact Sunita worked for her Grandfather at their newsagency in the North of England. From 6am to 6pm, 7 days a week she could be found behind the counter where she always kept a warm welcome for the local and regular customers. More recently though, her Grandfather suffered a serious motor accident and the shop was forced to close. Out of work Sunita struggled to make ends meet while she nursed her Grandfather. That was when an ex-customer notified NewstrAid who quickly stepped in to help.

There are many people in the news distribution trade - some young and some not so young, who just like Sunita have fallen on hard times, others have retired or are unable to work due to disability. Perhaps you know of someone.

Pinter delivered with the finesse of silver service

REVIEW

The Dumb Waiter
Global Theatre Productions
Harlow Playhouse

A PEERLESS comedy of menace, Harold Pinter's deliciously dark fable The Dumb Waiter serves up so much more than the guns and gangsters capers penned by the Nobel Prize-winning playwright's modern disciples. Years before the likes of Quentin Tarantino began to win plaudits for their sharply-written dialogue, Pinter was experimenting with rhythm, tone and pause to explosive effect.

The interplay here between grouchy hitmen Gus and Ben is a fine example of the master at work.

But what Pinter manages to achieve through his masterful manipulation of language is only half the appeal of this brooding classic, which still resonates as a powerful allegory of corporate slavery and class struggle more than 50 years on from its first run.

Staging the play in the intimate Playhouse Studio was director Michael Philips' first masterstroke, adding a palpable sense of claustrophobia to proceedings as the walls close in on the nervy assassins-in-waiting.

His next was casting Lee Ocsko and Chris Millington, two accomplished actors with an ear and an eye for exactly what their roles demanded.

Ocsko played Gus with a wonderful, wide-eyed menace, the jumpy junior henchman whose naïve, unthinking acceptance of his role as working class worker ant gradually gives way to self-awareness, guilt and a slow-burning sense of injustice.

Millington, meanwhile, was genuinely unnerving as sinister senior partner-in-crime Ben, becoming explosively violent when his imagined authority is challenged and taking great delight in pretending to be of better stock than his scruffy young accomplice.

The genius at the play's dark heart is that the man really pulling the strings is never seen – the kind of untouchable, malevolent corporate master Pinter was railing against – and whose one-way communiqués via the dumb waiter ratchet up the tension between his staff and lead to the play's bloody climax.

This near-flawless production deservedly won the Waltham Forest Festival of Theatre in March last year and on this evidence it should have gone on to win the final of the All England Theatre Festival three months later.

A triumph of style and substance, this was silver service from a group who consistently take the amateur out of am-dram.

It's the shock 'n' roll horror show

REVIEW

Circus Of Horrors: The Four Chapters From Hell
The Playhouse, Harlow

AS the ominous music boomed around the blackened auditorium and the show's world famous horrors slunk onto the stage it soon became apparent this circus was going to be unlike any other show I have encountered.

For a theatre is perhaps not the ideal setting for a self-confessed 'freak show' that falls awkwardly between a Megadeth concert and something you'd expect to see on a paid-for adult channel.

It was billed as a revamped performance promising spectators a rockin' and shockin' encounter through some of the most horrifying chapters in time.

But to suggest there was any kind of plot would be misleading, because among the mish-mash of props, scantily-clad performers and deafening music from rock-metal group Dr Haze and the Inceptors from Hell, the incomprehensible performance may have as well have taken place in a foreign language.

But then no-one visits a circus to see an ingeniously-scripted show, and as far as the performers were concerned this highly-energised, talented batch mainly didn't disappoint – and frequently horrified.

Female contortionists left the audience wincing, skilled knife throwers and trapeze artists had us on the edge of our seats and heavily tattooed human pin-cushion 'Hannibal' filled the room with squeals as he concluded his stomach-churning sword-swallowing act.

Yet jokes from ringmaster Dr Haze frequently fell flat and at times the show seemed a little amateur, with missed catches and overlong stunts.

The Circus of Horrors is not for the young, faint hearted, prudish or those of a nervous disposition. But there is, nevertheless, something mesmerising about the extraordinary performances that will leave stronger-stomached fans gagging for more.

'Smart' pill unleashes a brainstorm of creativity

MIND OVER MATTER: Bradley Cooper stars as writer Eddie Morra who is given a wonder pill which increases the power of the brain and unleashes untapped creativity, in LIMITLESS

certificate 15 1h44m

THE drugs do work in Neil Burger's visually arresting morality tale, set on the bustling streets of modern day New York. However, narcotic nirvana comes at a price.

According to popular myth, humans only use 10-20 per cent of their total brain power. Imagine, then, the huge leaps and bounds that could be achieved in science and the arts if we could somehow energise those supposedly dormant synapses.

Alan Glynn's debut novel The Dark Fields invented a fictitious wonder drug that could do just that and imagined the repercussions for an avaricious modern society.

Screenwriter Leslie Dixon adapts the book to the big screen as a tale about a struggling writer who has the whole world in his hands and selfishly squanders this remarkable gift to indulge in the excesses of 21st century life.

Eddie Morra (Bradley Cooper) has been wrestling with writer's block for weeks and his girlfriend Lindy (Abbie Cornish) has finally given up on him. At his lowest ebb, Eddie meets his former brother-in-law, Vernon (Johnny Whitworth), who gives the struggling writer a wonder pill called NZT which reportedly increases brain activity and unleashes untapped creativity.

Eddie swallows the pill and the next morning discovers he has furiously churned out the first 40 pages of his magnum opus. And as he becomes addicted to the medication, he metamorphoses from hopeless bum into a suave, ultra-confident and charming man-about-town, winning back Lindy and earning the respect of powerful Wall Street mogul Carl Van Loon (Robert De Niro).

However, Eddie's supply of pills is finite and in order to continue his meteoric rise, he must acquire a new stash.

Limitless is stylishly crafted by director Burger, who employs some nifty visual trickery to replicate the hallucinogenic side effects of NZT as it opens Eddie's mind to a world of thrilling possibilities.

Nobody likes a know-it-all and sure enough, Cooper struggles to win our sympathy for his drug-assisted hero, who can talk his way to success by recalling facts from the darkest recesses of his memory.

Cornish looks gorgeous in an undernourished supporting role while De Niro barely has enough time on screen to get beneath the skin of his influential money man.

A hastily contrived coda, set 12 months later, attempts to tie up some of the loose narrative threads but there would have been a pleasing symmetry if Eddie's life had been left in disarray.

THE EAGLE
certificate 12A 1h54m

SET in the wilds of England and Scotland but partly filmed in Hungary, The Eagle pits the might of the Roman Empire against the barbarism of the indigenous tribes.

The entire Ninth Legion disappears without trace in Scotland and its standard, a golden eagle, is lost forever to the eternal shame of Rome.

The commander of those soldiers also vanishes and 20 years later his son, Marcus Aquila (Channing Tatum), accepts a posting in Roman-occupied southern Britain in order to learn the truth about his father's demise.

The young soldier is badly injured protecting his men and recuperates with the help of his uncle (Donald Sutherland) and slave boy Esca (Jamie Bell), whom Aquila saves from certain death in the gladiator's ring. Once he has regained his strength and mobility, Aquila heads north in search of answers. He is accompanied by Esca, a member of the tribe of savages responsible for slaying the Ninth.

TURTLE'S TALE: SAMMY'S ADVENTURES (3D)
certificate U 1h25m

A GREENBACK sea turtle called Sammy (voiced by John Hurt) proudly looks back on his life, starting back in the late 1950s when he emerged into the world on a Californian beach and struggled to clamber out of the egg chamber.

He discovers the love of his life – the beautiful Shelly (Gemma Arterton) – only to lose her to the strong tides. He then meets a leatherback turtle called Ray (Robert Sheehan) and they become best friends.

As the turtles circumnavigate the globe, they encounter deadly piranhas, a scavenging fish eagle and a Parisian cat called Fluffy (Kayvan Novak), who resents being usurped in his hippy owner's affections.

A Turtle's Tale: Sammy's Adventures is pitched at a very young audience, who will forgive the workmanlike visuals and the comically simplistic lyrics to the songs. Not once are any of the characters in serious peril, and the script paints mankind as both nature's greatest enemy and its saviour from destruction.

Chalet Girl Tomboy skateboarding prodigy Kim Matthews (Felicity Jones) abandons the sport she loves after her life is touched by tragedy, settling for a humdrum job in a fast food restaurant so she can take care of her hapless father, Richard (Bill Bailey). In order to earn more money, Kim accepts a position as an Alpine chalet attendant at a highly exclusive resort. There she makes an immediate impression on playboy Jonny Madsen (Ed Westwick), son of wealthy, jet-setting couple Richard (Bill Nighy) and Caroline (Brooke Shields), who are renting the chalet Kim has been hired to maintain.

The Lincoln Lawyer Mick Haller (Matthew McConaughey) conducts business from the back of a Lincoln Continental sedan driven by former client Earl (Laurence Mason). The defence attorney is used to representing the dregs of society but he hits the jackpot when bail bondsman Val Valenzuela (John Leguizamo) recommends him as counsel for playboy estate agent Louis Roulet (Ryan Phillippe), who has been accused of assault and attempted murder. Louis vigorously maintains his innocence and Haller and private detective Frank Levin (William H Macy) sift through the flimsy evidence. But when cracks appear in Roulet's testimony, Haller realises he will need more than his usual wheeler-dealer tricks to ensure justice is served.

Hall Pass Maggie (Jenna Fischer) and Grace (Christina Applegate) are sick and tired of their husbands Rick (Owen Wilson) and Fred (Jason Sudeikis) ogling other women. So at the suggestion of their friend Dr Lucy (Joy Behar), the women grant their spouses 'hall passes' for one week. Rick and Fred hit the town with pals Gary (Stephen Merchant), Hog Head (Larry Joe Campbell) and Flats (JB Smoove), while Maggie and Grace leave town with the children and babysitter Paige (Alexandra Daddario) to find some distractions of their own.

Unknown Dr Martin Harris (Liam Neeson) travels to Berlin with his beautiful wife Elizabeth (January Jones) to attend a conference, but after arriving at their hotel Martin is involved in a freak accident and slips into a coma. When he wakes in hospital four days later he discharges himself and races back to the hotel to find his wife – except she doesn't recognise him and another man (Aidan Quinn) with the same name is on her arm.

Rango Rango (voiced by Johnny Depp) is an ordinary chameleon who accidentally winds up in the town of Dirt, a lawless outpost in the Wild West in desperate need of a new sheriff.

Battle: Los Angeles It's August 12, 2011 and capital cities around the world are under attack from alien invaders. We rewind 24 hours and follow events leading to first contact and the subsequent bloodbath.

Gnomeo and Juliet (3D) Garden gnomes Gnomeo (voiced by James McAvoy) and Juliet (Emily Blunt) have as many obstacles to overcome as their quasi-Shakespearean namesakes when they are caught up in a feud between neighbours.

MOST people don't have a great deal of choice regarding the date they move home.

With the best will in the world, a house sale can all too easily deviate from the most organised and finely tuned plans and that date you had in mind when you originally agreed the sale can come and go as you stand by helplessly.

Planning your house move to fit around your job or the school holidays, for example, might sound great in principle, but how many times does it actually come off?

If you're one of the buyers taking part in this year's springtime search, you might actually be better off house hunting at a less popular time of year. Buying 'out of season' is even likely to be a little cheaper.

Removal firms, for example, know that their services are likely to be in more demand during the long school holidays or on the Friday preceding a bank holiday weekend and so are far less likely to be open to offers in terms of a discount at these times.

And your solicitor is just as likely to take his or her summer break during school holidays, just when you wanted them on hand to organise your exchange of contracts!

Whether you're buying or selling this spring, try to relax and take your time. It'll probably pay dividends in the long run.

ASX- The new crossover from Mitsubishi Just the right size to...

Big enough for a horde of excitable kids, yet small enough to cope with rush hour, the new ASX has been designed for real people with real lives. At home on city streets or open country roads, the higher driving position, class-leading interior space and assured handling have been intelligently packaged to create an agile and versatile family car. And the low CO₂ engines, Auto Stop & Go, energy efficient tyres and advanced alternator control will reduce the size of your carbon footprint, saving you money to spend on living. We call this intelligent Motion.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF:

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our own recovery vehicles and issue a Certificate of Destruction from the Department of Vehicle Licensing Authority via our direct link to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

HONOURED: The three Harlow RFC youth players who have earned recognition from Essex. From left, James Lewis, Josh Drake and Lewis Alderman (s)

Trio's Essex call-up

A TRIO of youngsters from Harlow Rugby Club have been selected for an Essex U-20 tour of Denmark in May.

Prop James Lewis, who was last season's Colts captain, flanker Josh Drake and fly-half Lewis Alderman have all been picked.

This was after the three were in the county U-20 team which defeated Middlesex 20-13. Prior to this they were in the Essex side which lost 24-14 to Eastern Counties.

Eastern Counties is made up of players from Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire.

All three players have played first XV rugby for Harlow this term after moving up to senior rugby at the start of this term.

Harlow RFC spokesman Dave Sharp said: "The club is delighted with the progress they have made.

"It's good for us they are playing at this level."

Ladies eye top three finish

A TOP three finish can still be gained by Harlow.

The Passmores School-based side are fifth and need to beat Thurrock II in their last game this Saturday and hope that East London and Maldon & Little Baddow slip up.

This was after Harlow claimed a narrow win at Colchester II in their penultimate match last Saturday.

Colchester thought they had broken the deadlock after 15 minutes when Minal Patel fired past Harlow keeper Linda

Colchester II 0, Harlow 1

Essex Women's Hockey, premier division

Rowley, but the goal was disallowed as the shot was outside the circle.

Harlow increased the pressure and their crisp passing paid dividends when captain Emma Tweddle and Petra Trimble combined on the right for Tweddle to fire home her 15th goal of the season after 22 minutes.

The hosts pushed for an equaliser, but Harlow's defence stayed firm before and after the break.

In the second half, Harlow's left wing Charlotte Byers was unlucky not to convert, her shot from a Tweddle pass going just inches wide of the left post.

But Harlow held on for a notable victory.

HARLOW (squad): Rowley, Shearman, Figg, Spencer, Chambers, Douglas, Tweddle, Ferdinando, Byers, Amos, Phipps, Trimble.

Other result:- East Men's Hockey League, four south east: Old Southendian II 1, Harlow 0.

Penguins star in Champs

THREE Harlow Penguins members have performed well in the 2011 Essex County Swimming Championships.

Jasmine Hind (13), Mason Arnold (13) and John Reynolds (16) all swam in the 50m freestyle event at Southend-on-Sea Pool during February and March.

Mason, who was ranked 24th in Essex prior to the Championships, achieved the highest ranking.

He knocked 1.5 seconds of his PB (personal best) in the heats recording a time of 29.43 seconds.

He also achieved another PB in the final (29.27s) in which he came 5th.

Jasmine and John both performed well and both remain highly ranked in Essex for their age groups.

Jasmine is ranked 25th and John is ranked 18th.

Promotion alive

THE promotion hopes of Harlow RFC's U-16 side were kept alive as they beat Upminster 34-7 at home in their penultimate Essex League division two match.

Fly-half Kurtis Knightley dashed over for an early unconverted try.

Captain Mason Newborough, Andre Riddell, Jake Alger and Dominic Lane all scored tries in the second half to complete a big win.

Super Chay hits five in win

CHAY Cooper was the five-goal hero as Summers Cobras U-9 beat Soccer Mayhem 6-0 in the West Essex & East Herts Youth Football League Cup quarter-finals. Charlie Bliss also netted for the visitors.

In the league, Joss Almond scored two superb goals as Summers Vipers U-9 upset Langley Colts Red.

His second came after an excellent pass from Ben Willis.

Summers led 2-0 at half-time but Langley fought back well, halving the deficit.

However, the hosts held on to take the points.

It's father's day for Daggers ace

Charlton twice a week.

Richard, below, said: "It was quite a commitment and it was shattering for him when he was released. It was moving when he scored and ran back. "I told him after the game he had now laid it to rest [by proving himself to Charlton]. He added: "His defensive play has improved. It was a vital win for Dagenham."

Green (22) had spells at Northampton Town and Nottingham Forest before spending a year at Bishop's Stortford. He joined the Daggers in May 2009.

He said: "I ran the whole length of the pitch to celebrate with my Dad. He used to drive me to training and games every Tuesday and Wednesday up to London so that was for him."

Richard watched Saturday's match with his wife Michelle and younger son Rory (19).

Danny also scored when he netted in Dagenham's 1-1 draw against Leyton Orient on Tuesday, bringing his league haul to eight this season.

Dagenham, with their limited budget, were many people's favourites to go down after winning last year's npower League Two play-off final, but John Still's men have a fighting chance of avoiding the drop.

They are just above the relegation zone and have games in hand.

Great time for Ricketts in half marathon

Cross country

RICK Ricketts claimed a good position when he completed the Brentwood Half Marathon in a creditable time of one hour, 27 minutes and 21 seconds.

The Harlow Running Club member finished 57th out of 2,022 runners in Sunday's race.

On Saturday, Dionne Jones completed the very hilly and tough Orion 15-mile cross country race through Epping Forest in an excellent time of 2:15.52.

She was followed home by Harlow colleague Marc Lowers in 2:32.54.

At the Reading Half Marathon, Vicky Steadman

clocked a superb time of 1:46.08 on Sunday. She was 3,012th out of 12,483 competitors.

Meanwhile, Janice Page clocked a personal best when she completed the Hastings Half Marathon in 1:55.51.

Harlow athletes shine at top events

PERRY Rowan was the first of eight Essex runners to complete the junior boys (U-15) race in the English Schools Cross Country Championships at Nottingham on Saturday. The 14 year-old Burnt Mill School student got off to a good start and completed the 4.2km course in 14 minutes and 26 seconds.

He was 27th out of 352 starters and was only 19 seconds short of an international call-up. Perry needed to finish in the top eight to earn selection for England at a Home Nations cross country international this weekend. The second-placed Essex finisher was 45th.

Harlow-based athletics coach John Stow said: "Perry has only been in the sport just over a year and ran extremely well and really rose to the occasion for this big event."

Fellow Burnt Mill pupil Amelia Barrett (14) came 66th from 350 starters in the junior girls 3.5km race in 13:36.

Amelia was 5th highest scorer for Essex, who were the winners of this age group in the team race out of 44 counties.

Meanwhile, 10 year-old Harlow Athletic Club member Molly Gardner was crowned Essex Schools 1,500m champion after winning the U-11 race at Hylands Park in Chelmsford on Wednesday last week.

Molly got off to a good start and at halfway was 10 yards down on race leader Megan Samuels (Southend).

Molly drew level with Megan before a determined kick 300 metres from the end saw the youngster draw away for a great victory.

There were 200 runners in the field including new Harlow AC member Holly Davies, who was 11th in her first competitive race.

Hawks Motor on with win

Redbridge 1, Harlow Tn 2

Ryman, division one north

THE victory margin should have been more convincing, but Harlow Town did enough to gain the all-important three points.

Saturday's win at Oaks Stadium kept Hawks' good run going but they squandered chances against the Motormen.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "We were excellent in the first half and there were one or two other chances we should have put away.

"For the first 70 minutes it was the best we have played all season. They got back into it with a goal, but we did not fall apart. We knew what we had to do. It was an excellent result."

Lee Roache and Dave Cowley missed chances to put the visitors ahead before the deadlock was broken by Harlow on 25 minutes.

An unmarked Steve Ferguson jumped the highest to head home a cross from in-form midfielder Getro Kilapi. He beat two Redbridge defenders before playing a pinpoint centre to the unmarked Ferguson.

"Steve Ferguson caused them no end of problems with his pace and running at full-backs. He was excellent," beamed Chapman.

The Hawks doubled their advantage moments before the half-time break. Cowley, left, scored his third goal in as many games, neatly tucking the ball into the corner of the net after Redbridge had failed to clear.

The visitors managed to get the ball down more in the second half.

Harlow should have gone 3-0 ahead, but a great save from Redbridge custodian Elliot

Justham prevented Bertie Brayley from scoring.

Hawks boss Chapman made the first of three substitutions just before the hour mark with Roache being replaced in attack by Leon Antoine.

Harlow won the second match 6-4, 6-1 against John Bitten & Keith Johnson.

Harlow's second pair Steve Dodd & Paul Pattinson lost 6-1, 6-3 against Bitten & Johnson but recovered in their second match, as conditions worsened, to win 6-6, 6-2 after being 1-5 down in the first set.

Boss eyes Fab win double

Hawks and England the ingredients for fan-tastic day!

A FAB TIME: England boss Fabio Capello (s)

DANNY Chapman is urging the town to get behind his Harlow Town team for their vital home clash against fellow play-off chasers Romford this Saturday – and watch a Fab win double.

The Hawks are kicking off early (1pm) in their crucial Ryman League division one north match against their Essex rivals at Barrows Farm.

Fans can then remain in the clubhouse to watch Fabio Capello's England side take on Wales in the vital European Championship qualifier straight after (3pm KO).

Harlow, who beat Romford 4-2 in the reverse fixture just over a fortnight ago, are now four points ahead of their seventh-placed rivals in fourth spot.

Romford have two games in hand over Harlow and the result of this weekend's match will play a significant part in the scramble for play-off places.

Up to seven teams are in with a realistic shout of grabbing one of the two other play-off spots.

Chapman, above, said: "It's a big game and the more support we can get behind us will be fantastic.

"The supporters have been excellent, but we want to get the rest of the town behind us as much as possible.

"People can see our game. Then they will also be able to watch the England v Wales game in the clubhouse afterwards."

He added: "It will be good to have even more atmosphere. The team is doing well and the club is being run in the right way.

"We are setting up an academy next year for kids. It gives parents the chance to see the club."

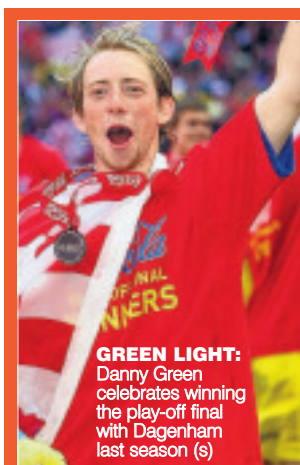

Chapman said the only likely absentee for Harlow is forward Che Stadhart who is struggling with a knee injury he picked up against Waltham Abbey.

"Che will not be available. He is going to get an MRI scan," he said.

The return of centre-half Laurie Stewart (ankle injury) is a boost.

Chapman said: "He did some running before the game at Cheshunt and came through OK. He will be available for selection."

The transfer deadline is only a week away and Chapman will consult with assistant Christian Wheeler and co-owner Tom Cunningham to see if any new players should be brought in.

GREEN LIGHT: Danny Green celebrates winning the play-off final with Dagenham last season (s)

It's father's day for Daggers ace

DAGENHAM & Redbridge star Danny Green ran the whole length of the pitch after scoring against Charlton Athletic - to pay tribute to his father Richard.

The entire Green family had travelled down from their Rundsells home in Harlow for the crucial match.

Afterwards former St Mark's pupil Danny had warm words for his father, which were picked up by several national newspapers, and for his role in supporting his son's career.

Danny, who had been rejected by Charlton at 15, fired in Daggers' second goal on Saturday.

He then ran the whole length of the field and pointed to his Dad, who was in the stand at Victoria Road.

Green snr (53) was visibly moved after the goal and his son's celebration. The goal helped the Daggers seal a 2-1 home win over Charlton in npower League One - and boost their bid to beat the drop.

Richard used to drive Danny to training at >>Cont'd on page 79

Ambers hit stop sign: It's three and easy for Hawks

LEON Lalite scored his first goal since returning to the Hawks as Danny Chapman's men comfortably beat close neighbours Cheshunt on Tuesday.

The 3-0 win at Theobalds Lane means Harlow Town are now fourth in Ryman division one north ahead of Saturday's huge six-pointer at home to play-off rivals Romford (KO 1pm).

Harlow are now unbeaten in nine matches.

The win also avenged November's disappointing 4-3 home defeat against the Ambers, who slipped out of play-off contention in January.

Harlow boss Chapman kept faith with the same line-up that beat Redbridge 2-1 on Saturday.

The visitors went close in the first half.

Bertie Brayley, Lee Roache,

Cheshunt 0, Harlow Tn 3
Ryman, division one north

Dave Cowley, Getro Kilapi and Steve Ferguson were all denied by Ambers keeper Joe Wright who was in inspired form.

But Roache eventually made the breakthrough on 39 minutes.

The forward took the ball past a Cheshunt defender and slotted his shot into the bottom left corner under the custodian.

Harlow doubled their lead just a minute before half-time. A short corner from Cowley - a constant thorn in Cheshunt's side on the left flank - found Lalite and he fired in an instant 12-yard shot from the left.

It was one-way traffic in the second half as well.

Roache had two great chances, while Brayley had three efforts that went close and was harshly tagged offside on one occasion.

Cowley was also unlucky not to score.

But Brayley completed the scoring on 76 minutes when he slotted home from Cowley's neat ball across the face of goal.

Roache was superbly denied by Wright as Harlow went close to grabbing a fourth. Cheshunt had some chances but James Hasell was not really troubled.

The side are clearly missing strikers Chris Meikle and Darryl Cox, who caused Harlow no end of problems in the reverse fixture at Barrows Farm.

Chapman said: "We took 25 minutes to settle, but once we did were excellent in every department. We got the result we deserved.

"Leon Lalite's goal was superb. We had been working with corners [in training] and the finish by Leon was excellent. It will help his confidence."

"Cheshunt have not been losing by much and we limited their chances very well. We could have won by more. Lee Roache had a goal ruled out. Bertie Brayley was ruled offside but he did not seem to be interfering with play."

HARLOW TN: Hasell, Barnard, D. Brown, Roget (Daniel R. Brown 91), Gledhill, Kilapi, Ferguson (Taylor 84), Lalite, Brayley (Peagram 77), Roache, Cowley. Att: 161.
